Sector Focus: Communications

Andrews McMeel Universal is an international media and entertainment company headquartered in the historically significant Boley building in the heart of downtown Kansas City. The company worked with design firm, Helix Architecture + Design, to develop a workplace solution for its 75,000 square foot space that reflects the whimsical and creative nature of AMU's employees. Designed to stimulate synergy and inspire creativity, they selected clean streamlined AutoStrada™ workstations and brightly colored furnishings from KnollStudio® to punctuate the contemporary, light-filled space. AutoStrada™ workstations

(cover) highlighted with custom Tangerine, Rouge, Purple and Grape dry erase, magnetic communication tiles give AMU employees a place to sketch out designs and share ideas. Brightly colored Divina™ lounge chairs and white laminate Saarinen coffee tables (left) create a lively collaborative zone. The AMU lounge (top right) is appointed with comfortable Divina™ Lounge and Saarinen Womb seating. Florence Knoll sofas, Platner lounge chairs and Bertioia bar stools (bottom right) in a vivid array of KnollTextiles reflect the energy of the company and give the expansive architectural space classic design with a modern twist.
